VOLUME XLVII — UKIAH CITY, MENDOCINO COUNTY, CAL., FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 16, 1915 — NUMBER 40

FRUIT BEING SHIPPED TO MENDOCINO EXHIBIT

Ranchers Are Urged to Cooperate

Mrs. Maggie Tindall shipped a box of fine apricots to the Mendocino exhibit this week and Wayne Crawford a fine box of plums. The exposition commissioners most urgently request that all farmers and fruit growers having fruit they desire to exhibit get it to the nearest commissioner at once, who will pack it and ship it free of charge. The fruit must be picked rather green, just when it has begun to color, but before it begins to get soft. It will ripen fast after it arrives at the booth.

Big exhibits are not desired so much as small ones shipped every few days in order to keep the exhibit replenished constantly.

Those having the welfare of the county at heart are most urgently requested to cooperate with the commissioners in furnishing the exhibit. It takes but a little time to get the fruit picked and to the commissioner and the people of the county should be public spirited enough to do all in their power along this line. Full credit will be given.

William J. Bryan while passing through the Mendocino county booth last week admired greatly an exhibit of onions which was sent from Ukiah by Mr. Figone and expressed his admiration

BIG TOURIST TRADE EXPECTED THIS SUMMER

Exposition Visitors Are Coming

San Francisco, July 14—That Mendocino county will receive by far the greatest number of tourists this year than the county has ever received before is assured from the great interest taken in the Mendocino county display section in the California building at the Panama Pacific International Exposition. It is estimated that more than 10,000 people visit the section daily. Many of these are well-to-do farmers of the Middle West who are seeking investments and others are Californian's seeking pleasure spot where they may spend their vacation.

On account of the good highways and the great mountains, the fine streams and the game which abound in Mendocino county many automobilists and sportsmen have signified their intention of spending their vacations in that county. Several auto parties have already spent a few weeks in the mountains and these report that the climate is ideal, the highway fine for automobiles and the fish and game a delight to the sportsmen.

Great quantities of literature illustrating the industries of the county and the opportunities offered the investor have been distributed among the Eastern tourists and it is safe to say that Mendocino county will greatly benefit by the exposition.

BYRNES SAYS THAT BLIND PIGS MUST GO

Will Average Two per Month

Sheriff Byrnes has started after the blind pigs in earnest and says that he intends to make an average of two arrests a month for the next three and a half years of his term of office. He begun operations this week with a complaint against Newton C. Terwilliger, of Cummings, who will be arrested by the end of the week. Other arrests are in prospect and Byrnes says that if the supply of blind bigs holds out he will have no trouble in getting the goods on them and making the arrests at the rate of two a month.

Those who know Byrnes' record the past term of his incumbency have no doubt he will make good his word if the supply of blind piggers sholds out. For his first term of office over 100 convictions were obtained in these cases. If convicted men and momen had been fined $200 each a total of over $20,000 would have been obtained, which would have paid the expenses of the sheriff's office and gone a long way toward paying the salary of the same. However many were let off with nominal fines and others were put on probation.

Here is food for the digestion of the judiciary of the county. When convictions are obtained in these cases the slapping on of a big fine would aid materially in keeping down the tax rate as far as the expenses and salary of the sheriff's office are concerned.

As a Board of Equalization the Board passed a rule that all applications for reduction of assessment should be filed and the Clerk should give 48 hours notice before they come up for hearing.

In the Board of Equalization July 12th and 13th.

The Board met and heard the sworn testimony of agents and representatives of several of the timber companies concerning the values and assessments placed upon their property and after earing and considering such evidence the Board found that the property held by the companies testifying were assessed out of proportion to the farm lands of the county and out of proportion to the timber owned by the small individual owners and therefore ordered that the Clerk reduce on the assessment rolls all timber land assessed to the Companies so testifying from $15 and $12.50 per acre back to $10 per acre. No timber land to be assessed at less than said amount.

Additional applications from other companies and individuals were filed with the board to have their land also reduced in like proportion on timber land and the hearing of said matters set for Monday, July 19th.

REV. ADAMS MAY GO TO SANTA ROSA

Call Will Be Extended Him

(Santa Rosa Press Democrat)

At a special called meeting of the congregation of the Christian church after the morning service today the committee on a new pastor will present its recommendation and the congregation will be asked to take action relative to extending a call.

While the report of the committee is not binding upon the congregation, it is expected that the call will be extended in accordance with its recommendation, as the man selected is said to be very generally approved by the membership of the church.

The committee will recommend to the congregation for its pastor the Rev. W. T. Adams, who has been located at Ukiah as pastor of the Christian church for about two years past, having come to this State from Oregon. He is a man about thirty-five years of age, with a wife and two children, and is said to be especially fine in pastoral work.

Mr. Adams is the son of an elder in the Woodland Christian church and joined the church himself when a boy. He attended the old Hesperian Christian College at Woodland and then went East, graduating from Drake University in Iowa. Following his graduation he worked in Kansas for several years and then came to the Northwest, doing evangelistic work in Washington, Oregon and Northern California. He has a brother who was a Methodist minister for a time, but later took up work in the Christian church, where he is now engaged.

SOME GOOD RECIPES

Rice Croquettes With Cheese Sauce—Cook a cupful of rice in two and a half cupfuls of milk, with a teaspoonful of salt until tender, adding more milk if needed. Season with two tablespoonfuls of butter, a dash of paprika, and mix with two beaten egg yolks then chill. When cold and stiffened mould into cones, balls or cylinder forms, dip in crumbs, then in egg white and in crumbs again. Brown in hot fat and serve.

Cheese Sauce—Take three tablespoonfuls of butter, add four of flour when the butter is bubbling hot, mix well, add a half-teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of paprika, one and a half cupfuls of milk and a cupful of chopped cheese. Cook the sauce well before adding the cheese and serve as soon as it is melted.

Cheese Savory—Prepare some thin slices of toast. Cover each slice with one-half inch pieces of good flavored cheese. Lay in a baking pan and place an egg carefully in the center of each piece. Bake in a hot oven until the eggs are set. Season with salt and a dash of paprika on each.

Parsnip Croquettes—These are especially well liked by those who are fond of parsnips. Cut the parsnips in halves and cook until tender, remove the skins and any tough portion, and mash until smooth, and butter, pepper, salt and set aside to cool. When cool enough to handle mould into balls, dip in crumbs and egg, then crumbs again and fry a deep brown. Use as a garnish for a roast.

BLALACK HOPS SOLD

(Santa Rosa Press Democrat)

The highest price paid for 1914 hops since February of this year was that given yesterday for the Blalack lot of 500 bales in Mendocino county by C. C. Donovan. The price paid was 12½ cents per pound.

The Blalack hops were of fine quality and the buy is a good one. This adds another bunch to the Colonel's big purchase of the past few months. He has bought about 20,000 bales in all, and will do some lively marketing before long. At present he is enjoying a little recreation at Bartletts and other resorts.

ALLIGATORS OF PANAMA.

One Man Eater That Had Terrorized Two Neighboring Villages.

With other white companions I have often plunged into the waters of the Tuyra, a fairly large river which flows into the gulf of Panama after having traversed immense stretches of impenetrable forests. Regularly a score or so of alligators assisted at our gambols at a distance of thirty or forty yards, and we came to look upon them as quite harmless.

After an absence of two years I returned and in two neighboring villages found the inhabitants terrified. No one dared to go near the river at nightfall. No one ventured, even in broad daylight, to cross the stream in the narrow canoes which are used by the natives to carry bananas and vegetables from their plantations.

The cause of this terror, I discovered, was an alligator that had devoured thirty persons in less than two months, surprising some on the river bank and literally snapping others out of their canoes. Thirty people, and the two villages together only numbered 250 souls!

After a series of fruitless attempts we ended in capturing the brute with a baited hook, an enormous affair, to which we fastened half a pig. The creature was close on twenty-four feet long. He was so old that seaweed and mosses were growing between his scales, and he presented the appearance of a tree trunk that had been a long time submerged. He was, we estimated, more than 100 years old.—Paul Drevy in Wide World Magazine.

Busy Nights.

It was Noah who was voicing the complaint.

"My wife made me get up and shut the windows every night it rained," he said.—New Haven Register.

GUALALA ITEMS

Gualala, July 13—It seems we are keeping up the Fourth of July spirit, as picnics have been the order of the day since. On the 11th quite a number from Fish Rock spent the day on the river. Among the party were Mr. and Mrs. McMillen and daughter, Mrs. George Maddox and husband of Manchester.

The immediate neighborhood of Bourns landing spent the day on the beach the 11th in honor of Mrs. Ellis Thrower. The good dinner was much enjoyed by all, and the wading in the briny deep was a pleasant feature of the day. Social chat and resting on the sand was much appreciated. As the sun was going home we thought it time to say good bye for the day.

James Long and brother, Robert, arrived in Gualala the evening of the 10th, driving their own machine from Los Angeles. They are having the landing overhauled, piers fixed up and the old buildings are taking on a white dress for the summer by the skilful hand of our boss of the landing, J. C. Briones, which greatly adds to the beauty of the landing.

Prof. Leslie Getchel, of Berkeley, is now visiting his parents, O. W. Getchell and wife, or Bourns landing. A boy raised among us, it seems strange to call him by any other than the youthful name.

We are glad to say Ah On is very much improved in health the last few days.

E. B. Lampkin and Mr. Fisk and wife, of Albion, are to join an auto party of friends from Los Angeles and come to our beautiful Gualala river for a hunting and camping season this week. Barton expects to spend some of his time on the old home place, visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Lampkin at La Loma orchard, where his wife has been visiting for some time. Glad to say her health has been much improved by her sojourn here.

Campers are leaving and campers coming in every day on the river and along the beach gulches.

The evening of the 10th campers on Gualala river gave a party in the hall in town. Lunch was prepared by the camp ladies, and all reported a good, jolly time.

Miss Malieta Logus and her friend who has been visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Polly Taylor of Bourns landing, departed on the stage Monday evening for Fresno.

Which? —for Easier Cooking

Kerosene	vs. Wood and Coal
Heat concentrated on the cooking, not spread through the room.	Heating up the kitchen when it's already 90 in the shade.
Ready, like gas—full heat in a minute.	Bothersome — waiting for the fire to burn.
Adjustable heat—a slow fire or a hot one.	Difficulty in getting the right heat.
Heat only as long as you need it.	Waste of fuel before and after actual cooking.
A clean, cheap fuel—easy to handle.	Wood and coal to lug—dirt and ashes.

Animals and Electricity.

Man has much greater power of electrical resistance or much less susceptibility than many other animals. A leech placed upon a copper plate which rests upon a larger plate of zinc is unable to crawl off on account of the feeble electric action, excited by the contact of the metals. Horses are troubled by slight differences of potential. An ox treated for rheumatism with electricity succumbed to a current absolutely inoffensive to man.

The Human Eye.

The human eyeball rests in a cushion of fat, by which it is surrounded on every side. When the system becomes greatly emaciated through disease this fat is absorbed and the eye sinks deeper into the head, thus giving the sunken appearance so common in disease.

All the other men were away at the time but fortunately the wind was not blowing so they put it out without much trouble. The fire started from a poor stove pipe.

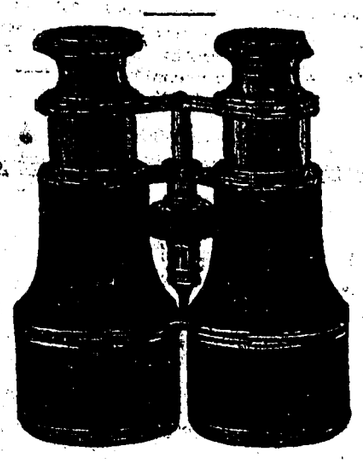
GET FIELD GLASSES
MAY SAVE YOU MONEY



After August 7th it will be unlawful to kill spike bucks, as the new game laws go into effect on that date. However, it is hard to tell a spike at a distance and you may save yourself a fine if you provide yourself with a pair of field glasses. Furthermore they are a handy article to have at any time when you are in the mountains. The Cox Hardware Co. has just received a line of samples and as they order on consignment, are able to make the lowest possible prices. Their line runs all the way from $5 to $30. Come in and examine it. Adv.

$60,000 WORTH OF REAL ESTATE CHANGES HANDS

Waldteufel Reports Several Deals

The real estate market shows decided indications of improvement. The large and healthy inquiry from land-seekers and the many correspondents who are either on their way or who state that they are about to start from Eastern States with Mendocino County as their objective point leads the local dealers to feel exceedingly optimistic. The firm of J. A. Waldteufel have been doing considerable in the way of sales to local people. Within the past few days this firm has closed the following deals: Miss Vinnie Field has bought the old Saxe ranch consisting of 170 acres located in lower Potter valley. It is Miss Fields' intention to go into hog raising on rather an extensive scale and in consequence she will put the greater part of this ranch into alfalfa. The price paid for this property was in the neighborhood of $20,000. W. D. L. Held has purchased 85 acres of the Hildreth ranch south of town for which he has paid $19,700. It is Mr. Held's intention to bring this body of land up to a high standard of cultivation. As yet he has not decided definitely what permanent crops he will put out. T. J. Weldon has bought 10 acres of the Hale subdivision of Yokayo Rancho for which he paid $2,500. A portion of this is in alfalfa and it is understood that he is to put out Bartlett pears on the balance.

Theodore Hale has purchased the P. J. Spencer place of 120 acres located in Coyote valley for $12,000. Mr. Hale has also purchased the 40 acres at the Forks that formerly was a part of the Chandon ranch. This 40 is for the greater part improved, having been leveled and checked and having a modern irrigation plant. The price paid for this was in the neighborhood of $400 per acre. J. D. Crigley, of Tonopah, has purchased 40 acres in the Calpella fruit land tract which he intends to put out to Bartlett pears next spring.

The report that the Waldteufels have sold the Finnish colony holdings in Redwood valley to a Los Angeles syndicate for $100,000 is denied.

The Guides are made up in districts covering the entire state of California. They are made from the combined experience of all firms extending credit.

Each rates his own customer, client or patient according to how they have paid him.

Before being rated they are given notice by letter that they will be rated, and given an opportunity to liquidate their indebtedness and thus secure a better rating.

Each subscriber is given a copy of the Guide that he may refer to it and look up the rating of any customer or prospective customer before extending credit.

A BURNED BARRIER

The Lover Laid His Pride at His Sweetheart's Feet.

By MARIE MONTROSE.

Down the dust white country road sped Doxy, palpitating and panic stricken, her eyes bent on a volume of smoke that was rolling up from the sheep dotted pasture. She went "cross lots" and came to the charred remains of the old farmhouse, where a knot of neighbors, helpless and wondering, gathered round the pathetically small pile of rescued household effects.

Doxy was not a young woman, but she was of the type that time touched gently. Her eyes were soft and gray and expressive of a past but unforgotten time. Her optimistic fatalism was not wanting in this hour of trouble.

"I don't see how you managed to save so many things," she said to her friends, each of whom at this encouragement began to point out what he had snatched from the flames.

"See, Miss Barton," cried a lad, triumphantly thrusting a tin can into her hand, "I hearn you say as how this 'ere was yer bank, so I grabbed it fust thing."

"Oh, Jim, there is $50 in it!"

Her father, Seth Barton, now arrived upon the scene. His heart was full of memories which were smothered in the philosophical remark, "Never could have saved her in this wind!"

"You and Doxy 'll come right home with us and stay," cordially invited the nearest neighbor.

The others followed suit in this proffer of hospitality, tendering wide open doors.

"You are so kind, but we'll stay right here," said Doxy in response to each invitation. "Our barn upstairs is fitted up snug as a fireside, you know."

Her father's stoical face brightened. He had a catlike clinging to home—not from love of every heart beat for it, as in Doxy's case, but because he could not bear the thought of uprooting and transplanting.

The neighbors carried the goods and chattels to the barn and helped Doxy arrange a temporary home. While the men were aiding in the evening work their wives prepared supper. Any event, joyful or calamitous, in the district was deemed an "occasion" worthy of a general repast. After supper they departed for their homes. Seth settled down to his evening pipe and weekly paper as if nothing had happened.

Then Doxy in the soft shadows of the dusk stole out and went through the garden to the blackened ruins of tottering walls and crumbled mortar. All the voices of long ago called to her, most persistently the voice of the youth who ten years before had wooed her.

There had been the lovers' quarrel, and Jed Knox in a moment of hot headed anger had sworn he would never again cross the Barton threshold.

Time and events showed him that he was entirely in the wrong and that the quarrel had been of his own making, but he held stubbornly to his oath. With quiet and firm dignity Doxy had refused to see him elsewhere than in her own home.

As Jed's stubbornness increased he grew bitter and morose, avoiding all mention of Doxy.

She started at sight of a man coming from out the ruins, but in an instant she recognized Sol Opper, the village carpenter, early in line for a contract.

"Sol," said Doxy briskly, "I want you to build me a house as near like this as you can."

"Waal, Miss Barton, tell me how much you can put into a house."

"There's the $50 Jim saved, the bank account, a little insurance, some that Hobbs owes us"—

After a mental accounting she gave the total of her capital. Sol shook his head discouragingly.

"You can't do it noways for that money."

"Knock out the cellar," commanded Doxy, "and take off the blinds. In the fall I will use the turkeys for blinds."

"The turkeys!" repeated Sol wonderingly.

"The money I get for selling them, I mean."

When the blinds were off, the bay window deducted, the gables torn off, the back porch taken away, the stairs removed and a general clearing of fireplace, attic, paint, plaster, lath and partitions had been effected the amount of cash available was triumphantly reached.

The architecture appealed to Sol as easy to build, but was not in accordance with his ideas of what a dwelling should be.

"Your house won't have no insides, Miss Barton, but I'll be on hand tomorrow to begin," said he disapprovingly.

When he had gone she again resumed her twilight reveries.

"Miss Doxy!"

She started and, turning, saw the figure of a lad so like the youth of the long ago that there was a momentary stirring in her heart like pain.

"Don't you remember me—Laurie Knox?"

He was Jed's young nephew, who had been used as a child to spend his summer vacations with his uncle.

"Little Laurie! A man!"

"I hope so," he replied, taking her hand. "I came today for a visit after all these years. We just heard of the fire, and Uncle Jed asked me to come and see you and ask if there was anything we could do to help you. Won't you and your father come over to Uncle Jed's and stay, just for the night anyway?"

Had it been so long, then, his struggles? She pondered sadly. It hurt her that he could not come himself, but must send another. She thanked the boy kindly, but declined the invitation. After talking a few moments of old times she bade him go to the barn and see her father.

"You had better come, too," he pleaded. "I don't believe it's just good for you to stay here."

She smiled at his boyish wisdom.

"Just a few moments more, Laurie, and then I'll join you and father."

It was very quiet. A lone bird called. She felt solitary and outlawed. A third time she was interrupted. There was no mistaking the man. Jed, strong and straight, his grimness softened, but showing in the lines of his face, came straight up to her.

"Doxy, I thought they would never go. As soon as I sent the lad I knew I must come myself. I took a short cut, but the Opper man was ahead of me, and then, Laurie."

"Well?"

Her voice was curiously subdued.

"Doxy, I am here at last. I have punished myself all these years, which have not meant much to you, for you are as young and as fair as the night"—

"The night you said you should never cross our threshold."

"Doxy," he cried, seizing her hand passionately, "I have suffered for it. Be good to me."

"Why did you come tonight, Jed?" she asked quietly, but with beating heart.

"Why? Because everything brought me. I couldn't keep away."

"You came," she said, turning proudly away, "because you knew that at last you could come and still keep your oath, because you knew the house was gone."

"No," he said, with a long breath. "You don't mean that, and you don't think so."

She felt his strong arms about her. She was lifted and carried over the smoking ashes and bricks to the place where the doorstep had been. He held her closely with his left arm while his right hand grasped a blackened beam. In a moment he was standing on the charred threshold, pressing her to him in a tight embrace.

"Here," he said with forced lightness, "I lay my pride at your feet. Now, Doxy, won't you say something?"

"Never mind the ten years now, Jed. They are gone—like the house."

"But we'll have a new house, Doxy, right here, and Sol shall put on and in all those things you told him to leave off."

"I say," cried the voice of Laurie from a distance, "Uncle Seth just found a ten dollar bill in the old dictionary. He says he'll bet it's the one he lost ten years ago!"

American Place Names.

If the movement for the Americanization of American place names comparable with the movement which in Russia has changed the name of St. Petersburg to Petrograd ever gets started in the United States it will make awful havoc with the map. Boston will be Shawmut, Portland will be Piscataqua, Long Island will be Paumanok, and so on around the country. No doubt names with a real local reason in them, like Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Providence, Cincinnati, Detroit, Indianapolis and San Francisco will be retained, but New York, Boston, New Orleans, Richmond and Cleveland will have to go. The names of Chicago, Milwaukee, Buffalo and Oshkosh already loom magnificently for their sturdy Americanism.—New York Mail.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Bleeding Gums.

Bleeding gums are one of the signs of scurvy, a dreadful disease, of which, happily, we hear less now than in the days when men had to take long voyages on sailing ships and could not get fresh food. Mild cases of it are found among children who have been fed on condensed milk only. As soon as these children are given a proper diet with fresh milk the gums cease to bleed and grow hard again. Many other constitutional disorders besides scurvy cause bleeding gums, but most cases are owing to local conditions and need to be treated by the dentist rather than by the doctor. If your gums bleed because you have discarded a soft toothbrush for a stiff one you can relieve the trouble by a mouth wash of salt and water or by putting a little myrrh in the water. If, nevertheless, the gums continue to bleed visit the dentist at once, for spongy gums soon cause loose teeth. In many cases he will find suppuration round the sockets of the teeth or between them.

It is possible for that to be the case, although the teeth themselves show no sign of disease. It can even happen to the most cleanly people, for the brush, even when conscientiously used, will not reach the affected spot. If neglected the condition is sure to lead to trouble, because the patient constantly swallows the poisons that are formed, to the detriment of his digestion and his general health.

NEW WEAPON FOUND TO FIGHT FLIES

Powdered Hellebore Kills Larvae

A safe and effective weapon against the typhoid or house fly has been found in powdered hellebore by scientists of the department. Flies lay their eggs chiefly in stable manure. Powdered hellebore mixed with water and sprinkled over the manure will destroy the larvae which are hatched from the eggs. Since powdered hellebore is readily obtainable, this puts in the hands of everyone a remedy for one of the pests that has been found dangerous as well as troublesome. Powdered hellebore, however, will not kill adult flies, which must be swatted or trapped.

It has long been known that flies breed in manure, but previous methods of destroying the larvae there by the use of strong chemicals have been open to the objection that the treatment under some conditions lessened the fertilizing value of the manure or actually injured vegetation. This is not true of powered hellebore. Government experiments have shown that the hellebore is entirely decomposed in the course of the fermentation of the manure, and that even in excessive quantities it does no harm except to the larvae it is intended to destroy. Chickens picking in manure treated with it suffer no ill effects.

One-half pound of powered hellebore mixed with 10 gallons of water is sufficient to kill the larvae in 8 bushels, or 10 cubic feet, of manure. The mixture should be sprinkled carefully over the pile, especial attention being paid to the outer edges. In most places hellebore is obtainable in 100-pound lots at a cost of 11 cents a pound. This makes the cost of the treatment a little less than seven-tenths of a cent per bushel of manure. A liberal estimate of the output of manure is 2 bushels a day per horse. The money involved is therefore trifling in comparison with the benefits to the individual and the community from the practical elimination of the disease-spreading fly.

Although fresh manure is the favorite breeding spot, flies lay their eggs in other places as well, such as outhouses, refuse piles, etc. In these places, from which no manure is taken to spread on the fields, considerable saving may be effected through the substitution of borax for powdered hellebore. Applied at the rate of 0.62 pounds per 8 bushels of manure, borax is as effective as powdered hellebore in killing the larvae but costs less than half a cent for each bushel of manure treated. In larger quantities, however, or when the manure itself is spread at a greater rate than 15 tons to the acre, some damage to crops may result. Large quantities of manure are often used by market gardeners and others, and there is always danger of carelessness in applying the borax. The use of the more expensive but safer hellebore is therefore recommended for the treatment of manure. Borax is recommended for all other refuse in which flies may lay eggs.

Scientists who have been working for years to eliminate the fly are convinced that the use of one or the other of these simple measures is a public duty wherever manure and refuse exist. Sanitarians, however, strongly advise the removal of refuse heaps or other unnecessary rubbish or breeding places for flies. In breeding places which can not be thus disposed of, such as manure or stables, the daily use of powdered hellebore will keep the flies from breeding in these favorite breeding grounds. The best results are obtainable in a community where everyone cleans up his premises, traps or kills the flies, and systematically treats the manure and other breeding places with powdered hellebore.

The fly is not only a nuisance to human beings and live stock, it spreads disease and filth and is a menace to public health which can not be tolerated in the face of a demonstrated remedy. Details of the experiments with other information on the subject are contained in a professional paper, Bulletin 245 of the department.

Too much water about the tomato plants means a rank growth of wood and weak blossoms that do not produce fruit. Better be a little shy on water than to use too much. Do not plant tomato plants with corn or beans as enough water for the latter is too much for tomatoes.

S. Favreliere will take his departure this week for San Francisco, where he has accepted a position as a chef.

Deputy Sheriff Ed Brown was down from Willits on business the latter part of last week.

WATER ALONE AN EFFECTIVE SPRAY

Must Be Applied With Force

Where city water pressure is available, the garden hose often affords the easiest way of checking the ravages of certain insects, states Dr. A. L. Melander, entomologist of the Washington experiment station. Many people have the idea that strong poisons are required in controlling bugs, but this is not necessarily so. A stream of water delivered through a garden hose will most effectively serve in washing off and maiming such insects as aphids or plant lice, leaf hoppers, red spiders, young scale insects, the elm bark louse, the cottony maple scale, caterpillars, slugs, bud-worm, as well as spores of fungus diseases that have found lodgment on the plants. Not only is this treatment serviceable, but in many cases it will give better results than can be had by insecticides applied by the small spray pump. The use of certain sprays about houses is often attended by staining of painted woodwork or by the persistence of disagreeable odors, which are obviated by the water cure. Even under some garden or orchard conditions, where water piped under pressure is not available, it may be most advantageous to combat certain insects with plain water applied in this case by a pressure spray pump through a plain bored nozzle. Red spiders, currant worms and aphids call for such a recommendation, especially just before the fruit is to be picked when spray compounds might leave a taint. When aphids have curled the leaves they can not be reached by the usual spraying, but they must be touched by the poison to be killed. A stream of water is much more likely to wash out the aphis family from curled leaves than a misty spray is to penetrate into their midst. Many of these insects obtain their food by sucking and sit with their beak deeply inserted into the plant tissue. When struck with a forseful stream the beak is cracked, and such insects, even if not killed outright, are unable to feed again. City shade trees besmeared with honey-dew from aphids moreover receive an advantageous cleaning from the hosing.

MUDDIEST OF RIVERS

The Missouri is the muddest river in the Mississippi Valley; it carries more silt than any other large river in the United States except possibly the Rio Griande and the Colorado. For every square mile of country drained it carries downstream 381 tons of dissolved and suspended matter each year. In other words, the river gathers annually from the country that it drains more than 123,000,000 tons of silt and soluble matter, some of which it distributes over the flood plains below to form productive agricultural lands but most of which finds its way at last to the Gulf of Mexico.

It is by means of data of this kind that geologists compute the rate at which the lands are being eroded away. It has been shown that Missouri River is lowering the surface of the land drained by it at the rate of 1 foot in 6,036 years. The surface of the United States as a whole is now being worn down at the rate of 1 foot in 9,120 years. It has been estimated that if this erosive action of the streams of the United States could have been concentrated on the Isthmus of Panama it would have dug in 73 days the canal which has just been completed, after 10 years' work, with the most powerful appliances yet devised by man.

AGATE AND ONYX

The distinction between agate and onyx is not apparent to everyone, as is indicated by the samples of the two minerals received by the United States Geological Survey with requests for information. Onyx marble, or Mexican onyx, is composed of calcium carbonate or banded limestone. True agate is a variety of silica. Onyx marble is much softer than agate and is rarely used for gems, but when onyx is obtained in pieces of sufficient size it is cut and polished for small ornamental objects like inkstands and paper weights, as well as for table tops and soda-water fountains.

SUBSTITUTE FOR MEAT

(Prepared by Nellie Maxwell, Department of Farmers' Institute of the University of Wisconsin.)

Often for dietary reasons as well as expense the meat allowance must be cut down.

Substitutes which lend variety and produce the same energy producing qualities are the following: Whole wheat flour, dried beans, peas, lentils, peanuts, walnuts, pecans, peanut butter, oatmeal, cracked wheat, whole wheat, cheese, eggs, butter, cream, olive oil, milk, macaroni and rice. These are a few of the many foods which, simply or in combination, make a wholesome diet.

Dried fruits and nuts are valuable foods as well as the fresh fruits which are indispensable in a well-balanced diet.

Whole wheat, if soaked overnight, then cooked long and slowly, makes, with thin cream or rich milk, a meal of itself. Beans, peas, and lentils should be soaked then cooked in water and softened by a pinch of soda.

$25 FOR A PUP

(Clear Lake Press)

A man by the name of Thomas Wallace driving a Ford car ran over a dog belonging to Gene McCarty in the Glen Eden district yesterday. The dog was so badly injured he died. The accident, which according to the testimony of both Wallace and McCarty, was unavoidable, happened when the dog, a mere pup, ran in front of the automobile while it passed a team driven by McCarty. McCarty said the dog was worth $75 and although it was an unavoidable accident he did not wish to suffer by it. Wallace did not see why his pocket book or time should be wasted when the accident was unavoidable. With the help of the sheriff and without any warrants being served the affair was compromised by Wallace paying $25 to the owner of the dog. Mr. McCarty is a rancher of Glen Eden district owning what is known as the Voreis place.

This accident does not bear out the popular belief that no injury will result from being run over by a Ford.

HUNTERS HAVE GOOD LUCK NEAR COMPTCHE

Bag Buck and Bear Same Day

Frank Perkins returned last Wednesday from the Mallory camp near Comptche, where he had been hunting and fishing for several days. He reports the limit of good trout two occasions and fine luck at the hunting, a party of three, of which he was one, killing a fine buck and a bear the same day.

He says that the men of the camp regard the game laws as strictly as the game warden himself and are prompt to report any infringements.

The party, consisting of Perkins, Cecil Mallory and Engineer Edgar Parker left the camp before daylight last Thursday morning and reached the hunting grounds on a small branch of Big river at 6 o'clock. Rowdy, the famous dog of the Mallory camp, the same which treed the panther which now adorns the Mendocino county booth at the exposition, had worked but a few minutes until he started a bear and two cubs. The bear was treed in about 20 minutes' run, during which the cubs disappeared. Parker was the first to arrive on the scene and found the bear on a limb quite a distance up the tree. He shot and wounded her and she started down. When about 30 feet from the ground she jumped at him and as he sidestepped he floundered into a patch of greasewood. The bear would have made short work of him had it not been for Rowdy, who mixed it at once and kept the bear engaged. While the bear and dog were fighting Mallory appeared on the scene and the bear made a rush at him, shaking the dog off. He fired one shot and Mrs. Bruin turned tail and fled down the canyon. She almost ran over Perkins, who got behind a tree and let go as she went by, getting her just behind the shoulder and putting an end to her. Any of the three wounds would have proven fatal in time.

Perkins was voted too light for the work of packing the bear out, so Mallory and Parker slung her between them. She weighed 250 pounds and was a cross between a cinnamon and a black bear.

A little later the dog jumped a big forked horn Pacific buck and all three hunters turned loose at once. Two of the bullets took effect and Perkins had his turn at the packing act.

Frank reports that Ben Mallory also bagged a big forked horn while he was at the camp.

The fact that hunters are permitted in this section only by invitation is one reason the hunting is so good, according to Perkins, and another is because the people of the camp are so strict in their observance of the game laws.

MISS MARTHA KELLER BRIDE OF MR. DAHLSTROM

Miss Martha Keller and C. W. Dahlstrom were married last Sunday evening at the home of the bride's mother in Ukiah, Rev. P. T. Lynn, of St. John's church officiating. The couple departed Monday morning for San Francisco for a short wedding trip, after which they will return to Ukiah, where they will make their home.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. S. Keller and is an employee at the City of Ukiah. She has grown to womanhood in Ukiah and her cheerful and sunny disposition have endeared her to all. The groom holds a good position at the State hospital. Their many friends extend hearty congratulations and good wishes.

FORMER MENDOCINO RESIDENT DIES

Word was received here this week of the death of William Wells at the State hospital at Talmage last Tuesday. Mr. Wells was for a number of years past a resident of Fort Bragg, but was formerly a resident of Mendocino, having been one of this town's pioneer shoemakers. He leaves a wife and several children, Mrs. George Cameron of Navarro, being a daughter. The surviving relatives have the sympathy of many friends.—Beacon.

TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF PATRICK ROACH

Was Pioneer of Westport Section

Westport, July 12—There died at Westport July the 6th, Patrick Roach aged 91 years. Coming to California from Louisana in 1852, arriving at New Orleans from Ireland five years before at the age of 21 years, soon after coming here he settled in the valley near Santa Rosa, later at Hopland then at Eel River, moving to Westport thirty-five years ago. Since that time he has made his home here. He was well liked by all, was a staunch and true friend, and an ardent supporter of his convictions. The early politicians of the county were always eager to have him on their side.

The last two years or his life he was partly blind, otherwise he was strong and active until the end. He conversed with and knew his son up to the minute the heart gave way, and the machinery of life gave out.

Three daughters and six sons survive him. He has outlived most of those who were his associates in his earlier years, but his ready wit and sociable nature made him an agreeable companion to those many years younger. He took a great interest in those in the country near his own age all of whom he knew personally. He would ask of those who had made a trip to the county seat, "How is John Smith?" "Did you see the old boy, John Taylor?" and the same of the few others there were. "Do you know these men are nearly as old as myself. If one of these dies be sure to tell me."

The last few years on account of coming blindness he has dropped more or less from the memory of the rising generation. We are sure that on the other side all the old boys he knew will be on hand to welcome brave genial Pat Roach.

The latter appeared before Judge Wallace Tuesday, pled guilty and was fined $30 by the court. He was unable to raise the money, however, and was taken to Ukiah yesterday by Constable Patton to spend thirty days in the county jail.—Beacon.

BEN EDWARDS GETS SURPRISE ON BIRTHDAY

Ben Edwards was the recipient of a pleasant surprise last Friday evening at his home on Oak street. Unknown to him Mrs. Edwards had summoned a number of their friends and had prepared a fine chicken dinner with all the trimmings. Ben was completely flabbergasted when he came into the house talking rather carelessly, as a fellow will do occasionally at home, and ran into the bunch. He confessed that it was on him.

The party had a good time and adjourned at a late hour wishing Ben many happy returns.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Iversen, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Chilson, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hagans, Mrs. R. E. Donohoe.

$1,635,000 Hidden

In This Year's Goodyear Tires

Here are amazing facts:

Goodyear Fortified Tires contain five costly features found in no other tire. They have other features not common.

If we omitted those features, this year's probable output would cost us $1,635,000 less. We could add that much to our profits. And you would never know it until troubles came.

This year's improvements alone will cost us $500,000 yearly. Most of this goes into extra rubber—all into extra wear. And we shall spend on research $100,000 this year to find other betterments still.

Users Save $5,000,000

Yet our 1915 price reduction—made February 1st—will save Goodyear users about $5,000,000 this year. And that was our third reduction in two years, totaling 45 per cent.

These extra features—used by us alone—will save users millions more.

That's why Goodyears dominate. They have long outsold any other. They are gaining new users faster than we can supply them. We hope, for your own sake, that they'll soon win you. Any dealer will supply you. (2419)

Tempus Fugit.

"It is a year since last we met."
Remarked a Thomas cat
Unto a feline friend who, too,
Upon a back fence sat.

"Indeed, it does not seem so long
A time since you were here,
But I have noticed recently
How fast time flies, my dear.

"'Twas only yester-night that I
Sang here a melody
And some one in the neighborhood
Shied many things at me.

"A bootjack came, an overshoe,
A nickel clock at last.
I never realized before
That time could fly so fast!"
